THE INSURANCE GUY

Nature and scope of advice.

The Insurance Guy provides advice to our clients about their life, health, Disability, Home, Contents and Car Insurance. The Insurance Guy provides financial advice in relation to these financial advice products. We only provide financial advice about products from certain providers:

- For life, Trauma and Disability insurance, we work with Five companies – AIA, Asteron Life, Cigna, Fidelity Life and Partners Life.
- For health insurance, we work with four providers – Accuro, AIA, NIB and Partners Life.

Fees and expenses.

The Insurance Guy does not charge fees, expenses or any other amount for any financial advice provided to its clients.

Reliability History.

Neither the Insurance Guy Ltd or Marcus Longone have been subject to a reliability event. A reliability event is something that might materially influence you in deciding whether to seek advice from me or from The Insurance Guy Ltd. As an example, it would include legal proceedings against me, or if I had been discharged from bankruptcy in the last four years.

Conflicts of interest.

The Insurance Guy receives commissions from the providers on whose products we give financial advice for. If you decide to take out insurance, the provider will pay a commission of between 6% and 30% of your first year's annual premium to help towards compliance costs to The Insurance Guy Ltd and anywhere from 10% and 200% of your first year's premium to your financial adviser Marcus Longone, this amount can be reversed if you cancel your policy within two years. The amount of commission is based on the amount of the premium. From time to time, product providers may also reward us for the quality of the advice we give which encourages good behaviour and conduct. They may give us tickets to sports events, hampers, or other gifts. To ensure that our financial advice prioritises our clients' interests above our own, we follow an advice process that ensures our recommendations are made based on each client's goals, circumstances, and the quality of the Insurers products, claims history and premiums charged for the products. The Insurance Guy undergoes annual training about how to manage conflicts of interest. We maintain registers of conflicts of interests, and the gifts we receive. The Insurance Guy monitors these registers and provides additional training where necessary. The Insurance Guy Ltd performs an annual review of our compliance programme.
